Managing Type 2 Diabetes in Older Adults

Three coordinated educational campaign pieces for adults age 65+.

Campaign Material 1 - Awareness Flyer

Small Steps. Stronger Health.

- Know your blood sugar and what your readings mean.
- Build balanced meals using the Diabetes Plate Method.
- Move safely and regularly in ways that fit your ability.
- Take medications as directed and ask questions when something is unclear.
- Check your feet and keep regular health appointments.

Managing diabetes is not about being perfect. Consistent, realistic habits can support blood sugar control, mobility, confidence, and independence.

Audience: Adults age 65+ managing Type 2 diabetes. Educational material; not a substitute for individualized medical care.

Campaign Material 2 - Physical Activity Mini-Poster

Move for Better Blood Sugar

- Start with a 5-10 minute walk at a comfortable pace.
- Try seated marching, arm raises, toe taps, or other chair exercises.
- Use supportive shoes and stable support when needed.
- Drink water and stop if you feel dizzy, severely short of breath, weak, or unwell.
- Ask your healthcare team what level of activity is safe for you.

Start where you are. Build slowly. Choose movement you can repeat.

Audience: Adults age 65+ managing Type 2 diabetes. Educational material; not a substitute for individualized medical care.

Campaign Material 3 - Diabetes Self-Management Reminder Card

Your Weekly Diabetes Check-In

- MEALS: Did I use a balanced plate and watch portions?
- MOVEMENT: What safe activity will I do this week?
- MEDICATIONS: Do I understand what I take and when?
- MONITORING: Do I know what my glucose readings mean?
- FEET & SAFETY: Did I check for sores, redness, swelling, or changes?
- SUPPORT: Who can I contact when I have a question?

One small action this week can become a stronger routine next week.

Audience: Adults age 65+ managing Type 2 diabetes. Educational material; not a substitute for individualized medical care.
